Tami L. Mark, PhD is an internationally known expert on behavioral health care financing, services, and quality measurement. She has developed substance use disorder treatment quality measures and consulted with states on the use of quality measures to improve substance use disorder outcomes. She has also consulted with states on financing and payment approaches and on the use of administrative data to identify opportunities to improve their substance use disorder system. In addition to working with states, she has served on many Federal technical expert panels on substance use disorders such as for the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA), National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH), National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA), and Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA). Dr. Mark was a contributing author to the report Facing Addiction in America: The Surgeon General’s Report on Alcohol, Drugs, and Health. She has authored more than 125 scholarly peer-reviewed journal articles and many SAMHSA publications.

Julie Hayes Seibert, MA, MPH, PhD has over 20 years of experience in quality management and quality improvement. Dr. Seibert’s experience includes managing statewide Medicaid quality strategies; developing, testing, and obtaining National Quality Forum endorsement for health and behavioral health performance measures; developing monitoring tools and data collection processes for an external quality review organization (EQRO) and performing quality reviews for Medicaid managed care organizations. She has worked in the public behavioral health system and has held leadership roles in policy, management, quality improvement and clinical services.
